

JAMES FREDERICK, painter, cartoonist, illustrator

As an emotional response to the light and color of his environs on Cape Cod, James paints "alla prima" in a representational expressionism style. He also creates unique pieces depicting Provincetown scenes on wood panels using acrylic, oil pastel and pencil. James has published multiple comic books and destination coloring books.

James grew up in Ohio where his father worked as an artist/illustrator for the US Air Force. Raised to see all things as a visual relationship, James leveraged his talent to pursue a successful interior design career with a variety of major brands as clients while working at FRCH, Landor and Frederick Design Group.

Frederick Studio Provincetown was opened in 2015 as a working art studio and exhibition space.
